January 23, 1368: Zhu Yuanzhang, founder of the Ming Dynasty, declares himself Emperor of China

ACIS.COM/DYN

Dynastic China

- Visit the Forbidden City, Tiananmen Square and The Great Wall
- Participate in a cultural exchange with local students
- Stay in Xi'an to see the famous Terracotta Warriors
- Kung Fu and Shanghai acrobatics shows

After the heir to the Song Dynasty died, Zhu Yuanzhang declared himself the Emperor of China, taking the name Hongwu (meaning 'abundantly marital'). The Emperor reigned until 1398 and his dynasty oversaw the consolidation of Imperial government power, the construction of the Forbidden City in Beijing and increased economic prosperity.

FEBRUARY

February 11, 1990: Nelson Mandela released from prison

After serving 27 years of a life sentence on charges of attempting to overthrow South Africa's apartheid government, Nelson Mandela, at age 71, was released from prison. Mandela spent more than a decade fighting the passage of increasingly strict segregation laws and was labeled a terrorist by the government. Sentenced to life in prison in 1964, Mandela became a symbol of political resistance to Apartheid, and in April 1994, he was elected president in South Africa's first all-race inclusive elections.

MARCH

March 15, 44 BC:
Assassination of Julius
Caesar

ACIS.COM/EXD

Buongiorno Italia

- Overnight stays in Venice, Florence, Assisi Sorrento and Rome
- Guided tours of the Vatican Museums, the Colosseum, Pompeii and more
- Venetian glassblowing demonstration
- Mozzarella making demo and farm visit

The Ides of March originated as a marker in the Roman calendar of the first full moon of the new year, and included festive celebrations, but the date has come to have a grim connotation. In 44 B.C. after Julius Caesar proclaimed himself Dictator Perpetuus (“dictator for life”), a group of Roman senators fearing for the republic, stabbed Caesar to death. Now we must, as William Shakespeare says, “beware the Ides of March!”

APRIL

April 4, 1949: The North Atlantic Treaty Organization is formed

Twelve nations signed the North Atlantic Treaty, or Washington Treaty, forming the basis of NATO. The original intent of the document was to unite for common military defense against the threat of expansion by Soviet Russia into Western Europe. While the Cold War is long gone, the organization still operates as a defense organization and diplomatic collective with 29 countries now included. The treaty itself has remained unaltered since 1949.

MAY

May 5, 1862: The Battle of Puebla

Did you know that Mexico was once at war with France? In 1861, Napoleon III wanted to expand his empire's reach into Latin America, so he sent French forces to drive out the government of Benito Juárez. In May 1862, believing victory would be swift, Napoleon's forces attacked the city of Puebla de Los Angeles. To the shock of the world, the small band of Mexican troops outmaneuvered the French army and forced them into retreat. The victory is celebrated in Puebla as a state holiday, "Cinco de Mayo", and is a symbol of success despite the odds.

European War History

- Walk along Omaha Beach and visit the American Cemetery and Memorial
- Visit to the moving Caen Peace Museum
- Guided tour of the American Monument at Château-Thierry
- Sightseeing in Berlin, Paris and Nuremberg

Code-named Operation Overlord, the D-Day Invasion of Normandy was one of the largest amphibious military assaults in history. The planning was masked by decoy operations leaked to German intelligence about attacks on other Nazi-occupied regions, while the real operation was set for Normandy. On June 6, 1944, 156,000 American, British and Canadian forces landed on the beaches of the Normandy coastline, and for many historians, marked the moment when the tides turned against the Axis powers for good.

JULY

July 19-20, 1848: The first women's rights convention in the US is held

ACIS.COM/LEADERSHIP

Young Women's Leadership Programs

ACIS offers leadership development programs specifically for young women in England, Italy and the Dominican Republic. Participants have the chance to meet local leaders, engage in team-building activities and build lasting relationships, all while getting the ACIS touring experience!

In the summer of 1848, five women, including Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott, organized a meeting in Seneca Falls, New York, to “discuss the social, civic and religious condition and rights of Woman.” The gathering became known as The Seneca Falls Convention and launched the woman’s suffrage movement in the U.S. The event was guided by a manifesto, crafted primarily by Stanton, called The Declaration of Sentiments, 11 resolutions asserting women’s equality. The ninth resolution controversially demanded the right to vote, though it would be another 70 years before the right was guaranteed. Contrary to popular imagination, Susan B. Anthony was not in attendance and did not meet Elizabeth Cady Stanton until several years later.

AUGUST

August 28, 1963: The March on Washington

Officially called the March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom, the historic gathering saw more than 250,000 people gathered at the Lincoln Memorial to protest racial discrimination and systematic oppression. It was at this event that Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. gave his famous "I Have a Dream" speech, and although he had not intended to use that phrase in this particular speech, he was urged by members of the crowd to "tell them about the dream!" The rest is history.

SEPTEMBER

Sept. 2, 1666: The Great Fire of London

Edinburgh to London

- London's Monuments to Monarchy bike tour
- Royal Shakespeare Company theatre performance
- Visits to York, Oxford and Stratford-upon-Avon
- Guided sightseeing of Edinburgh and London

Although London has been a thriving city for centuries, most of the historic buildings there don't date earlier than 1666. That is because on September 2, 1666, a fire broke out at the home of King Charles II's baker in Pudding Lane and spread madly through the city's wooden homes and civic buildings. By September 6, only 1/5 of London was left standing, and although thousands lost their homes, the death toll was only 6!

OCTOBER

October 26, 1985: The rights to Uluru are restored to the Aboriginal Anangu

Sydney and the Great Barrier Reef

- Guided Australian Bush Walkabout
- Snorkeling at the Great Barrier Reef
- Surfing lesson at Bondi Beach
- Pamagirri Aboriginal dance show

Uluru, or Ayers Rock, is one of Australia's most famous sights. Sacred to the Aboriginal Anangu people, it is a crucial part of their creation mythology. For many years, the Australian government asserted ownership of the land, but on October 26, 1985, the government formally handed rights back to the Anangu people. The one condition was that it be leased National Parks and Wildlife agency for 99 years and jointly managed by the tribe. Did you know? Due to the sacred beliefs of the Anangu people, there are restrictions on what kinds of photos can be taken of Uluru, and commercial photography of the rock itself is prohibited without permit.

Ecuador and the Galápagos Islands

- Engage in a local conservation project with Rancho Primicias Reserve
- Visit Charles Darwin Research Station
- Take a snorkeling tour of Las Tintoreras
- Guided sightseeing in the capital of Quito

Charles Darwin rocked the scientific world with the release of his book hypothesizing that life's species evolved through the process of natural selection. Darwin had acquired most of the evidence for his theory during an expedition aboard the HMS Beagle in the 1830s, visiting such diverse places as the Galápagos Islands and observing the wildlife there. Though not the first to theorize about organic evolution, he was the first to present a practical explanation.

December 14, 1911: The South Pole is reached for the first time

By 1911, Norwegian explorer Roald Amundsen was already an impressive figure in arctic exploration: He had successfully guided the first ship through the Northwest Passage and around Canada's coast. More than anything, Amundsen wanted to be the first explorer to reach the South Pole and on October 19, 1911, his team of 4 companions, 52 sled dogs and 4 sledges set sail for Antarctica. After almost 2 months of travel, they made history when they reached the South Pole, beating Amundsen's rival Robert F. Scott to the victory.
